

The Caldecott Foundation Privacy Notice

1. Scope of this Notice

The Caldecott Foundation wants you to be familiar with how we collect, use and disclose your personal data. We are committed to protecting the privacy and security of your personal data. This Privacy Notice (“Notice”) describes how we handle your personal data when you have a relationship with or engage with us, or receive services from us.

This Notice covers the various different relationships we may have with you and other data subjects. For that reason, we may not use your personal data to the full extent described in this Notice. The personal data we collect and how we use it depends on your needs and your relationship with us.

It is important that you read this Notice carefully, together with any other privacy notice or fair processing notice we may provide to you on specific occasions when we are collecting or processing personal data about you so that you are fully aware of how and why we are using your personal data. This Notice supplements other notices and privacy notices and is not intended to override them.

We may change this Notice from time to time by updating this document. We will notify you when we do so.

2. Who we are

We are The Caldecott Foundation Limited, a limited company registered in England and Wales under Company Registration No. 00419256 and a Registered Charity registered in England & Wales under Charity No. 307889. 8. Do we collect Sensitive Personal Information?

Yes, we do collect sensitive personal data including special categories of data, criminal records data and personal data about minors. This is due to the nature of the work we do caring for minors and safeguarding them whilst they are in our care.

The special categories of personal data we collect include personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, data concerning health or data concerning sex life or sexual orientation.

These types of personal data are especially sensitive, and we provide additional specific protection to that information when we process it.

9. How we use this information

The Caldecott Foundation only collects and processes (i.e., uses) your personal information when and how the law allows us to do so: that is, when we are satisfied that we have a lawful basis for doing so. Most commonly we will use your personal information in the following circumstances:

- Where you have consented before the processing takes place.
- Where we need to perform a contract we are about to enter or have entered into.
- Where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and your interests and fundamental rights do not override those interests.
- Where we need to comply with a legal or regulatory obligation.

In the table below, you will find the legal bases that we rely on to process your personal data:

10. Withdrawing Consent

If we rely on your consent to process your personal information, which may be express or implied consent according to the applicable law, you have the right to withdraw consent at any time. You can withdraw your consent by contacting us at dataprotection@caldecottfoundation.co.uk. Please note that this will not affect the lawfulness of the processing which has taken place before you withdrew your consent nor, when applicable law allows, will it affect the processing of your personal information on the basis of any other lawful basis other than consent.

11. Sharing your personal information

Insofar as is reasonably necessary for us in delivering our Services to you and for the purposes set out in this Notice including for the purposes of carrying out recruitment processes, your personal information may be shared with the below parties that help us deliver our Services and manage our operations:

- other entities within the Caldecott Foundation group (the “Group”), including (but not limited to) Caldecott Fostering;
- our staff relevant to the provision of Services to you;
- systems administrators;
- third parties we use or work with to help deliver our Services to you;
- other third parties we use to help us administer our operations, such as marketing agencies and / or website hosts;
- hiring managers, HR and recruitment teams engaged in our recruitment processes.

We will only disclose your personal information outside the Group if disclosure is consistent with a ground for processing on which we rely and doing so is lawful and fair to you.

Specific circumstances in which your personal information may be disclosed to third parties outside of the Group include:

- where we consider disclosure is necessary or required by law, to exercise, establish, or defend our legal rights, or to protect your vital interests or those of any other person;
- where we require to work in partnership with third parties such as Local Authorities and relevant departments within them such as social work, residential care providers, schools and / or other educational establishments in connection with our provision of Services to you;
- where we engage third party vendors to perform services on our behalf and these third parties must process personal information to provide their services. Examples include: (a) recruiting or executive search agencies involved in your recruitment; (b) background checking or other screening providers and relevant local criminal records checking agencies; (c) data storage, shared services and recruiting platform providers, (d) third parties who provide support and advice including in relation to legal, financial / audit, management consultancy, insurance, health and safety, security and intel and whistleblowing / reporting issues; and

- in connection with a proposed sale, reorganization, or disposal of The Caldecott Foundation or any of The Caldecott Foundation's business units.

We only allow third parties to process your personal information if we are satisfied that they take appropriate measures to protect that information. We also impose contractual obligations on them to ensure they can only use your personal data to provide support and services to us and to you.

We, or the third parties mentioned above, occasionally also share personal data with:

- our and their external auditors, e.g., in relation to the audit of our or their accounts, in which case the recipient of the information will be bound by confidentiality obligations;
- our and their professional advisors (such as lawyers and other advisors), in which case the recipient of the information will be bound by confidentiality obligations; and
- law enforcement agencies, courts, tribunals, and regulatory bodies to comply with our legal and regulatory obligations.

We will never sell, lease, or trade your personal data for any reason.

The specific kind of information we share will depend on your activities with us and only to the extent as required or permitted by law, and/or with your consent.

Please note however that this Notice does not apply to the sharing of personal information by third party providers who may collect personal information from you and may share it with us. In these situations, we strongly advise you to review the applicable third-party provider's privacy notice before submitting your personal information.

12. International transfers

The Caldecott Foundation operates exclusively in the UK. However, in operating our Services we may take the decision to use Processors who are based outside the UK. The most common reason for this would be the use of a cloud based software solution.

These Processors may be located in jurisdictions outside the UK where the level of protection of personal data might not be as strict and advanced as here.

In those cases, your personal data will only be transferred where appropriate safeguards are in place (such as a UK International Data Transfer Agreement) and the transfer is made in line with UK Data Protection Law. We will ensure that appropriate security arrangements are in place to protect your personal data prior to making any such transfer.

13. How long we retain your personal information

Except as otherwise permitted or required by applicable law or regulation, we will only retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which we collected it, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or reporting requirements.

In the case of candidates for employment opportunities with us (including voluntary positions), in cases where you are unsuccessful, your personal information will be kept for the duration of the application process plus a reasonable period of time after confirmation that your application was unsuccessful to allow us to record the reasons for our decision in relation to your application. We may also retain your personal information to consider you for other suitable openings within The Caldecott Foundation in the future.

If you would like to opt-out from The Caldecott Foundation's policy of retaining your personal information for the purposes of considering you for other suitable openings, please email dataprotection@caldecottfoundation.co.uk and we will securely destroy your personal data in accordance with our document retention policy and applicable laws and regulations.

14. Keeping your personal information secure

We have appropriate security measures in place to prevent personal information from being accidentally lost or used or accessed in an unauthorised way. We limit access to your personal information to those who have a genuine business need to know it. Those processing your information will do so only in an authorised manner and are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although we will do our best to protect your personal information, we do not have any control over what happens between your device and the boundary of our information infrastructure when you are engaging with us by electronic means. You should be aware of the many information security risks that exist and take appropriate steps to safeguard your own information.

We also have procedures in place to deal with any suspected data security breach. We will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach where we are legally required to do so.

15. Changes to your personal information

It is important that the personal information we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your personal information changes during your relationship with us.

16. Cookies and other tracking technologies

Each time you interact with our website, we may, depending on the consent provided and your jurisdiction, automatically collect personal information, including Technical Information which will include data about your device, your browsing actions and patterns, content and usage data. We collect this data using cookies, server logs and other similar technologies like pixels, tags and other identifiers in order to remember your preferences, to understand how our website is used, and to customise our marketing offerings.

17. Your rights

Depending on where you are located, you may have certain rights in relation to your personal information, for example:

Request access to your personal information:

You have the right to ask us for a copy of your personal information. This right always applies.

There are some exemptions, which means you may not always receive all the information you ask for. Your right to ask for information in this way is known as making a data subject access request. In most cases, this will be free of charge; however, in some limited circumstances, for example repeated requests for further copies, we may apply an administration fee.

Request correction of the personal information that we hold about you:

You have the right to ask us to correct information we hold about you which you think is inaccurate. You also have the right to ask us to complete information you think is incomplete. This right always applies.

Request erasure of your personal information:

You have the right to ask us to delete personal information about you in certain circumstances. This right enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal information where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it.

We have the right to refuse to comply with a request for erasure if we are processing the personal information in question for certain specific reasons, including where we process the personal data in question in order to comply with a legal obligation, or to perform a task in the public interest.

Object to processing of your personal information:

You have the right to object to processing in certain circumstances, for example where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You also have the right to object where we are processing your personal information for direct marketing purposes.

Request the restriction of processing of your personal information:

You may ask us to stop processing your personal data in certain circumstances. Where this right applies, we will still hold your personal data but will not process it any further. You are able to ask us to suspend the processing of personal information about you in this way, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.

Request the transfer of your personal information to another party:

This right only applies if we are processing information based on your consent or for the performance of a contract and the processing is automated.

The application of these and any other privacy rights you may have depends on applicable data protection law. If you would like more information about your specific rights under data protection law in your jurisdiction and how to exercise those rights, please contact us at dataprotection@caldecottfoundation.co.uk.

Please note, when exercising your rights as set out above, we may request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity, verify your rights, and respond to your request. Applicable law may allow or require us to deny your request, or we may have destroyed, erased, or made your personal data anonymous in accordance with our record retention obligations and practices.

18. Complaints

If you have any concerns or would like to make a complaint about how your personal data is being processed by The Caldecott Foundation (or third parties as described above), or how your complaint has been handled, you have the right to lodge a complaint directly with the relevant supervisory authority and The Caldecott Foundation's Data Protection Officer at dpoaas@grcilaw.com however, we would encourage you to contact us in the first instance as we aim to promptly and efficiently try our best to deal with your concerns in a confidential manner.

The supervisory authority in the UK is the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), which may be contacted at <https://ico.org.uk/concerns> or by telephone on 0303 123 1113.

This Privacy Notice is dated August 2024.
